THE EVIDENCE.

Professor Leonidas Points, a brother of the deceased, testified that he knew nothing of the matter personally. When he saw her dead on Sunday night he saw nothing unnatural in the appearance of the corpse. Dr. Fauntleroy, being called, testified that he was called in on Sunday night, and found symptoms of apoplexy. He had been told of her being struck by her husband, and examined her head and neck carefully, but found no injuries. She died about ten minutes after he got there.

She was a lady of rewalk on, but Miss Harman said, "Oh, Mr. markable mind and education, and spoke Yost, you don't know." Just then they one or two languages besides her own with heard a thud, as if some heavy body had fallen on the floor. The children screamed, and then the screams subsided into sobs. As they got on Mrs. Harman's porch Mr. Points's little girl came out of his door and cried out : "Oh, Miss Harman, please come over; mama is dying." The child was wringing her hands, and seemed crazed with of his age. In the year 1855 he was a canfright. The witness and Miss Harman went over, and Miss Harman, asking him to re-

If he had been aware of it be would have insisted on the family being represented by counsel before it, or otherwise he should have protested against it. But now it had been commenced he was determined to have it thorough and searching. Miss Bessie Harman corroborated Mr. Yost's testimony, and added that when she got into Mrs. Points's room she found Mrs. Points lying prone on the floor, with her feet under the bed on which Mr. Points til the hour Virginia passed the ordinance was sitting upright, and her head near the of secession. Then it was that he felt that crib. She asked Mr. Points what was the his country demanded his services in matter, and he either said "I don't know," or gave no answer, she could not remember which. The children commenced telling that he had struck their mother, and he shook his head at them, and told them to stop. They said, "Father has struck mother with his cane on the back of the The cane was lying across the foot of the bed. They said also that he had been beating her all the evening, ever since supper. Mrs. Points was totally unconscious, and did not respond to some efforts made to restore her by the use of camphor. Mr. Points held the baby in his arms as he sat on the bed. BODY VIEWED.

Dr. Points here asked that the jury should go into the chamber and view it, which was ione. It was a small chamber, tastefully furnished, and on the mantelpiece two children's photographs jointly framed, and under them the inscription, "The Lord give thee peace." THE ONLY EYE-WITNESS.

The next witness was a little daughter of the deceased, aged about nine years. She was dressed in white, with a crape rosette and black mourning sash, having been dressed for the funeral of her mother, which was postponed on account of the inquest. She was a very intelligent child, but was frightened until Dr. Points, her uncle, took tenderly in his lap and reassured her. She understood the nature of an oath clearly. She testified that on the fatal evening her father struck her mother on the back of the head and the mouth with his cane. At the time the mother was sitting near the fire attending to the baby, and the father was sitting in a chair a little way off from her. The provoin the other room until she undressed the baby. STAUNTON, September 26, 8 A. M .- Mr George Harlan: Sir,-There is a report in town that Mrs. Points, near Mrs. Harman's came to her death by a blow on the head from a crutch in the hands of her husband. Report came through one of her little daughters, Mrs. McG-, Mr. H-, and others. The credit of the city demands investigation; it may or may not be true. I am not a resident of the city, but give you Mrs. Points in a dying condition with the this letter for your own reputation as a cor-AGRICOLA.

> DEATH OF HON. ELBERT S. MARTIN.-This gentleman, a prominent Virginian and a native of Lee county, died of typhoid-fever in the city of Dallas, Texas, on the 5th day of Judge Connely F. Trigg and Favette Mc-Mullin, but withdrew from the field of candidacy and gave his public life to the stump in behalf of Democracy until the year 1857, when he again entered the field for Congress as a candidate against Judge Hopkins, of Washington, and was defeated by less than a hundred votes. In 1859 he was a candidate against Benjamin Rush Floyd, and was elected by a large majority. In the halls of the national legislature he distinguished himself for his eloquence and ency; and in the year 1861 he was urged to enter the contest for reelection, which he did, and vigorously pushed the canvass unanother place, and giving up the canvass to his opponents-Walter Preston and Governor McMullin-he returned home, raised a company of volunteers, and entered the Confederate army as their captain in Judge Campbell's Forty-eigth Virginia regiment, in which he served with distinction till the latter part of 1863, when he was afflicted with rheumatism and compelled to resign. After the close of the war he made him self active in the cause of the South, stumping a principal portion of the Ninth district in the Walker and Wells gubernatorial can> vass of 1867. In 1870 he removed to Tarrant county, Texas, and retired to private life, in which he spent the remainder of his days .- Lee County Sentinel, 22d.

FIRE IN THE HEART OF THE CITY .- At 9:43 clock last night an alarm of fire was turned in at Station 31, corner Fourteenth and Main streets, occasioned by the partial burning of Messrs. M. Millhiser & Co.'s wholesale dry goods warehouse, No. 1309 Main street. The fire originated in the basement, where a large stock of woollen goods were stored, in a pile of calico comforts, from (it is believed) spontaneous combustion. The fire was confined to the basement, and nearly all of the loss was upon goods there and upon the first floor, where dress and dry goods generally were stored. No water was put upstairs, where the notions were stored. The smoke from the burning goods soon filled the store so that it was well-nigh impossible to see where the fire was. The whole Fire Department turned out promptly, and put a vast quantity of water into the building before the location of the fire was discovered. As soon as it was located it was put out, and the streams taken off. The damage by water was very heavy, and by fire about $2,000; in all about $20,000. The loss is fully covered by insurance, placed as follows:

pany.... Franklin Insurance Company of Philadelphia. Imperial and Northern Insurance Company, Atlantic Insurance Company. Westchester Insurance Company of New York.

Virginia Home Insurance Company.
Citizens Insurance Company of New York
Virginia State Insurance Company.
Manhattan Insurance Company, D. N.
Walker & Co., agents. 5.000

As soon as Company C's firemen turned the water into the hose from the plug at Thirteenth and Main streets the hose bursted, and not until they had put on three fresh sections did they get the hose to stand the pressure. Company A's steamer also bursted three sections. The building is owned by James W. and surance Company. Messrs. Millhiser & Co. had a $2,000 risk upon their fixtures in the Farmville Insurance Company. Mr. Moses Millhiser was out of the city, but was expected home this morning. The concern sustained a heavy damage by fire and water on the 15th of June last. The stock of goods on hand was very heavyindeed the firm had laid in a larger stock than ever before, and the loss, as well as

RESIGNATION OF JUDGE W. W. CRUMP. The Dispatch announced several months ago that Judge Crump, one of the Richmond members of the House of Delegates, had made up his mind to resign his seat. Yesterday his resignation was sent in to the Executive, and last evening the City Sergeant received the writ of election issued by Governor Kemper providing for filling the vacancy at the November election.

THE ANTI-DUELLING LAW AND MR. ROY-ALL.-It was announced in the Dispatch some days ago that Mr. William L. Royall. of this city, had been appointed a notary public for the county of Henrico, and had qualified as such. Upon inquiry of Mr. Royall we were informed by him that he had procured this appointment in order to test the question whether or not he is under disabilities to hold office under the Constitution of the State. The Constitution provides that no person who has engaged in a following cases in this court yesterday: duel, either as principal or second, shall be allowed to hold office under it. It is alleged to jail for six months. the present month, in the forty-eighth year that Mr. Royall was a second for Mr. Mordecai in the duel between himself and Mr. didate for Congress in this district against McCarty. Mr. Royall insists that the constitutional disqualification does not operate quitted. until one charged with having been engaged in a duel has been duly convicted, and that convicted, and sent to the penitentiary fer he has never been convicted. As soon as one year. the Court of Appeals meets here in November a writ of quo warranto will be sued out to test his right to hold the office. Many persons are under the impression that, even though otherwise qualified to hold office, one in the position of Mr. Royall could not take the oath of office. For the information of such we would explain that this is not so. The oath of office is provided in the Constitution, and is in these words: "I, —, do solemnly swear that I will support and maintain the Constitution and laws of the United States and the Constitution and laws of the State of Virginia; that I recognize and accept the civil and political equality of all men before the law; and that I will faithfully perform the duty of —— to the best of my ability. So help me God." Mr. Royall says he can take this oath as conscientiously as any man

HELP FOR THE SUFFERING AT BRUNSWICK. In response to the letter received by Mr.

Richard H. Meade the following druggists of this city have contributed medical supplies for the suffering ones at Brunswick, Ga., and they have been forwarded: Messrs. Purcell, Ladd & Co., R. W. Powers & Co., Meade & Baker, Bodeker Brothers, Jesse Child, H. Blair, Thomas Leonard, T. M. Saunders, Miller & Pierce, Polk Miller &

In addition, Messrs. Jenkins, Capers & Co. sent a liberal supply of pure Virginia whiskey, and Mr. M. S. Valentine some of his meat juice.

If time had have allowed much more doubtless, would have been contributed by the druggists, but as it was they were enabled to forward to the "Mayor of Brunswick" two substantial boxes filled with valuable medical and nutritive supplies, which were kindly carried, free of expense, by the Southern Express Company. All money-contributions which were offered Mr. Meade are requested to be paid to W. R. Quarles, Esq., or some of the ward collectors appointed by the Mayor. RICHMOND, September 29, 1876. My attention has been called to the fol-owing extract published in this morning's Dispatch from a report of a speech delivered by me in Cleveland on the night of the 23d: "In my own city there have been five revenue collectors since the revenue office was opened, four of them were thieves and the fifth was an honest man." The report was published more than twenty-four hours after I left Ohio, and never seen by me until my arrival home; and having been made from reporters' notes, contains, as was natural, many inac-curacies. I spoke, for example, of "four" collectors, not "five," and used, as I be-lleve, the word "defaulters." Mr. Rush Burgess complains that this language does him injustice, and is contrary to the fact of Government. As I had no personal knowledge of the matter, and spoke only from common rumor at the time of his resignation, in 1875, I cheerfully make the correction. I undoubtedly thought he was in default, and said so. Having, as he assures me, been mistaken, I say that with greater pleasure, as I am informed that on a final settlement with the Department he was a creditor of the Government to an amount exceeding A. M. KEILEY.
